Geography - Weather

Human fact- Weather can impact on human health. People feel better when it is warmer and experience more colds and flu type illnesses when it is colder. Humans have to adapt for different weather types, clothing, housing, exercise, fluid intake and diet.

Location fact – Different countries around the world experience different types of weather. Not all countries have seasons. Crops are grown in different countries depending on the weather.

Statistical fact- The amount of daylight hours and sunlight is higher in summer than in winter. Rain falls all year round in Britain but some months have more rainfall than others. Britain has four seasons and is warmer in Summer and colder in Winter.

Physical fact – Weather is the day-to-day or hour-to-hour change in the atmosphere. Weather includes wind, lightning, storms, hurricanes, tornadoes, rain, hail, snow, and lots more. Energy from the Sun affects the weather. Climate tells us what kinds of weather usually happen in an area at different times of the year.
